INSIGHT: SEASONAL SECURITY

Nigerians anxious as festive season approaches

The yuletide is almost here again, As expected, it often comes with a mixture of excitement and apprehension across the world. In Nigeria, that mixed feeling is perhaps encapsulated by the responses from the latest study by Academy Halogen

As part of our monthly security intelligence series, we asked Nigerians to identify the likelihood security issue(s) for insecurity during the 2019 end-of-year activities. The survey shows that one-third of Nigerians anticipated a spike in security incidences during the festive period. In November, Academy Halogen launched an online and offline survey titled "Christmas 2019: Anticipated Risks Concerns" that elicited responses from all the regions across the country. (The report is available upon request to info@academyhalogen.com).

About a quarter of the respondents anticipate a low security incidence during this period. This number, made up of over 70% male, represents the aggregated views of Nigerians and their apprehension this season. It is also neccessary to note that about half of the sample population remain optimistic that the festive season will be incident-free.

Security Concerns

Security awareness should be paramount for everyone, especially during the festive season. Whenever you are spending the festive season elsewhere, or concerned about being burgled overnight, there is every reason for everyone to take precautions with their security during the Christmas season.

Feedback from our study emphasized herdsmen attack, kidnapping and banditry, terrorism, cultism, murder, armed robbery, religious crises and civil unrests as major security challenges that Nigerians are wary of. Respondents further highlighted sexual harassment, tribal conflict, theft and rape as other significant issues.

The most ranked security issues with the likelihood occurrence were armed robbery (67.3%), kidnapping/banditry (59.7%) and murder (46.5%) respectively. The Respondents are of the opinion that the religious crises and civil unrest are not a red flag security concern during the yuletide season based on governmental security intervention compared to previous years.

The most ranked security issues with the likelihood occurrence were:

- ARMED ROBBERY (67.3%)
- KIDNAPPING/BANDITRY (59.7%)
- MURDER (46.5%) respectively.

Feedback from our study emphasized HERDSMEN ATTACK, KIDNAPPING AND BANDITRY, TERRORISM, CULTISM, MURDER, ARMED ROBBERY, RELIGIOUS CRISES and CIVIL UNRESTS as major security challenges that Nigerians are wary of.

The Respondents are also of opinion that Herdsmen attack are lesser security issue with likelihood of occurrence during the festivity.

Security Risks

Over 40% of our respondents have been victims of one of the security issues outlined in the survey questions.

We further examined the criminal patterns and types of crime during Christmas from 2017, Our research indicates that criminals often target megastores, warehouses and related businesses during their busiest period at Christmas as a result of haul of cash and valuables for example. In the week leading up to Christmas Day 2016, there was recorded a 33% increase in attempted security breaches, with a third of all activity taking place between the hours of 6pm and 12am.

Christmas Eve is a very important day to be watchful, especially for those going to make last-minute purchases or collect gifts to bring home. Records show that the rate of crimes is usually less on Christmas Day, as the level of malicious security breaches is generally not high.

Security Advisories

Already, some foreign countries have issued various travel advisories to their citizens planning to visit Nigeria during the festive period. For instance, the Canadian government advised its citizens to avoid non-essential travel to Nigeria due to the unpredictable security situations throughout the country and the significant risks of terrorism, inter-communal clashes, armed attacks and kidnappings.

Citizens are to exercise a high degree of caution in the cities of Abuja, Calabar and Lagos.

The U.S. government expressed its limited ability to provide emergency services to its citizens in many areas of Nigeria due to security conditions. It categorises Nigeria as a country with violent crimes – such as armed robbery, assault, carjacking, kidnapping, and rape as being common throughout the country. Travellers are advised to exercise extreme caution throughout the country due to the threat of indiscriminate violence.

Terrorists continue plotting and carrying out attacks in Nigeria, especially in the Northeast. Terrorists may attack with little or no warning, targeting shopping centres, malls, markets, hotels, places of worship, restaurants, bars, schools, government installations, transportation hubs, and other places where crowds gather.

THREAT'S INTELLIGENCE ANALYSIS - Nov, 2019

287 security incidents were recorded that resulting in 455 deaths of both perpetrators and victims. 679 arrests were made by security agencies in relation to these crimes.

Kidnapping and Auto crashes are the leading threats in the month of November. Both account for 36% of total incidents.

The military neutralized 130 Boko Haram insurgents and made 61 arrests. The insurgent group claimed the lives of 44 victims in November.

82 people were kidnapped pan Nigeria in November. Figures are 46% above reported cases in November 2019.

Borno, Zamfara and Kaduna recorded the highest threats induced deaths at 172, 75 and 31 constituting 61% of cumulative deaths.

107 lives were lost to banditry related activities constituting 23% of deaths.

Most arrests were made in the North West and North Central regions at 195 and 137 respectively.

THREAT'S WATCH

An analysis of national crime data in the 3 years reveal a notable quantitative spike in crime rates during festivals. Murder and serious assault increases by as much as 50% during December each year, while incidents of burglary increases by 8%.

INTERNET FRAUD (419)

The threats of financial fraud is projected to increase by an estimated 22% or more, noting that banking & retail are majorly online.

ROAD ACCIDENT

This is one of the key threat that have always remain on the increase during every festivities. There will be a lot of movement of people Because driving regulations in Nigeria is not strict, most people tend to over speed, drink and drive and these trigger increase in road accidents.

KIDNAPPING FOR RANSOM

2019 witnessed the most kidnapping trend that Nigeria has experienced. Unlike previous kidnappings which take on political dimensions — such as those involving militants who agitate against oil companies in the south south, or Islamic group Boko Haram in the north — this wave spans every region, and is driven largely by economic intents. With the exception of November, there have been month on month increase in reported cases of Kidnap with the number expected to spike leading to the festivities. These is largely due to the myriad activities, more public gathering, increase spending & movement of people.

FIRE

Between September and November 2019, 20 fire cases were reported pan Nigeria destroying properties worth millions of Naira. There are increased possibility in fire outbreaks as we are now in the dry season alongside the dusty Harmattan that is usually more conducive to fire outbreaks.

ARMED ROBBERY

Criminals tend to strike more during the holiday season because they know that there are many people about and shopping. Analysis of last year's crime statistics shows that each day of the holidays, crimes committed were at an average of 45 burglaries, 35 robberies and 215 thefts. Robberies increased in December 2018 against November 2018 by 35%. and we anticipate similar trend in Dec 2019.

DRUG AND ALCOHOLIC ABUSE

More people consume more alcohol and recreational drugs at the season. Research conducted by the South African Police Service (SAPS) shows that most cases of violence occur when acquaintances, friends or family members have arguments that spiral out of control, especially when people are under the influence of alcohol or drugs. In many cases, nightclubs, taverns, shebeens and private homes of victims or perpetrators become crime scenes. We envisage similar behavioural pattern in Nigeria in December 2019.
